

Dr. Mais Emad Ahmed

microbiology

College of Science of the University of Baghdad .I got a patent about producing bactericin from antibiotic-resistant bacteria(MRSA) and its effective role in wound healing , A number of lectures were given by my colleagues in the department on biosafety and biosecurity programs in for laboratories ,I also published more than 18 research in international journals including scopes and clarvit added to the participation of Five local conferences and Two of which are international. We have also supervised the projects of graduate students and evaluated a number of researches for local Journal.