

Wedean Al-Hadban

Teaching assistant at university of Baghdad/ college of science/ department of biotechnology.

Personal summery

A supportive and caring lecturer. Talented with communication and topics explanation skills, and following new techniques and ways of teaching. With a proven ability to stimulate students' enthusiasm to learn and be successful.

Education

- Bachelor Degree in biotechnology from university of Baghdad/ Iraq. 2<sup>ed</sup> position out of 58 with average 88.58. (2006-2007)
- Master Degree in biotechnology from Florida institute of technology/ united states of America with Grade Point Average (GPA) 4 out of 4

Work experience

- Biological assistant from (2008 – 2010).
- Teaching assistant from (2014 – present).
- Member of examination committee at biotechnology department (2015- present).

Duties

- Helping students to learn aspect of experimental design.
- Helping students to learn the purpose of the experimental method they use
- Teaching student how to interpret the result they get.
- Work on researches
- Attending conferences and holding seminars to improve personal and others education level and to improve the quality of education.

Skills

- Language: Arabic and American English.
- Computer knowledge.
- Knowledge in molecular biology and genetic engineering techniques and bioinformatics.

Membership

A member of the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi initiate by election of the Florida Institute of Technology (2014).

Published articles

- Optimal condition for Bromelain extraction from Pineapple fruit (Ananas comosus)
- Detection of biofilm formation and icaA gene among Iraqi clinical isolates of both methicillin resistant and susceptible Staphylococcus aureus.
- The role and effect of efflux pumps and efflux pumps inhibitor on methicillin resistant Staphylococcus aureus biofilm formation.